

MAY STILL OPERATE RIVER STEAMER LINES

Pennsylvania Railroad Must Abandon Certain Lines Out of Baltimore.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company may continue ownership and operation of its steamboat lines on the Potomac, Patuxent, Piankatank and Rappahannock rivers for the present, without violation of the Panama Canal Act, under a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

This company must, however, relinquish its lines out of Baltimore to Eastern Shore points, with the exception of those from Claiborne and Love Point, which are held to be ferry lines, connecting eastern shore rail lines with Baltimore.

An order was entered by the Commission today denying the application of the Pennsylvania railroad and its subsidiary lines for permission to continue operation of steamers between Baltimore and points on the Eastern Shore, other than Claiborne and Love Point, and on the Chester, Choptank, Nantuxet, Wicomico, Pocomoke, and Occoquan rivers. No order was issued with respect to the Potomac river line, but the findings of the Commission, as stated in the opinion written by Commissioner Clements were:

"Upon consideration of the facts of record we are of opinion and find that the continued operation of the Patuxent, Potomac, Rappahannock, and Piankatank river lines by the petitioner is not in violation of section 5 of the act to regulate commerce as amended by the Panama canal act, and that the above findings subject to such action as the commission may take hereafter in case a further investigation of the matters and things involved is deemed necessary."

This latter sentence is taken to mean that upon proper showing by any party at interest, the commission will reopen the question of propriety of the railroad ownership and operation of this line.
